

JEAN ADAMS
 PhD 2004 ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOUR/INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
 GOVERNOR GENERAL'S GOLD MEDAL RECIPIENT
 PREVIOUS DEGREES: B.A.; MBA

"What I love about the Schulich School of Business doctoral program is the way paradoxes and dilemmas of research methodologies, and issues facing today's business leaders are front and center. This provides a significant advantage. For me, it provoked deep reflection as the basis for action-learning research and the emergence of a new approach to leadership education."

 PhD STUDENT ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT
 PhD CANDIDATE MANAGEMENT POLICY CONCENTRATION
 PREVIOUS DEGREES: B. COMM., MBA

"Coming from an MBA background, I was not familiar with the research process of academia. Co-authoring with faculty here at Schulich has been instrumental in understanding the process of conducting high-quality research. Working with faculty that recently have completed their PhD has especially provided great insight into the PhD process in general. Yuval draws from his own previous experience as a PhD student and provides me with sound advice and guidance that I find incredibly useful in my pursuit of an academic career."

YISONG TIAN
 SCHULICH PROFESSOR AND ALUMNI
 PhD 1992 FINANCE
 PREVIOUS DEGREES: B.SC.; MBA

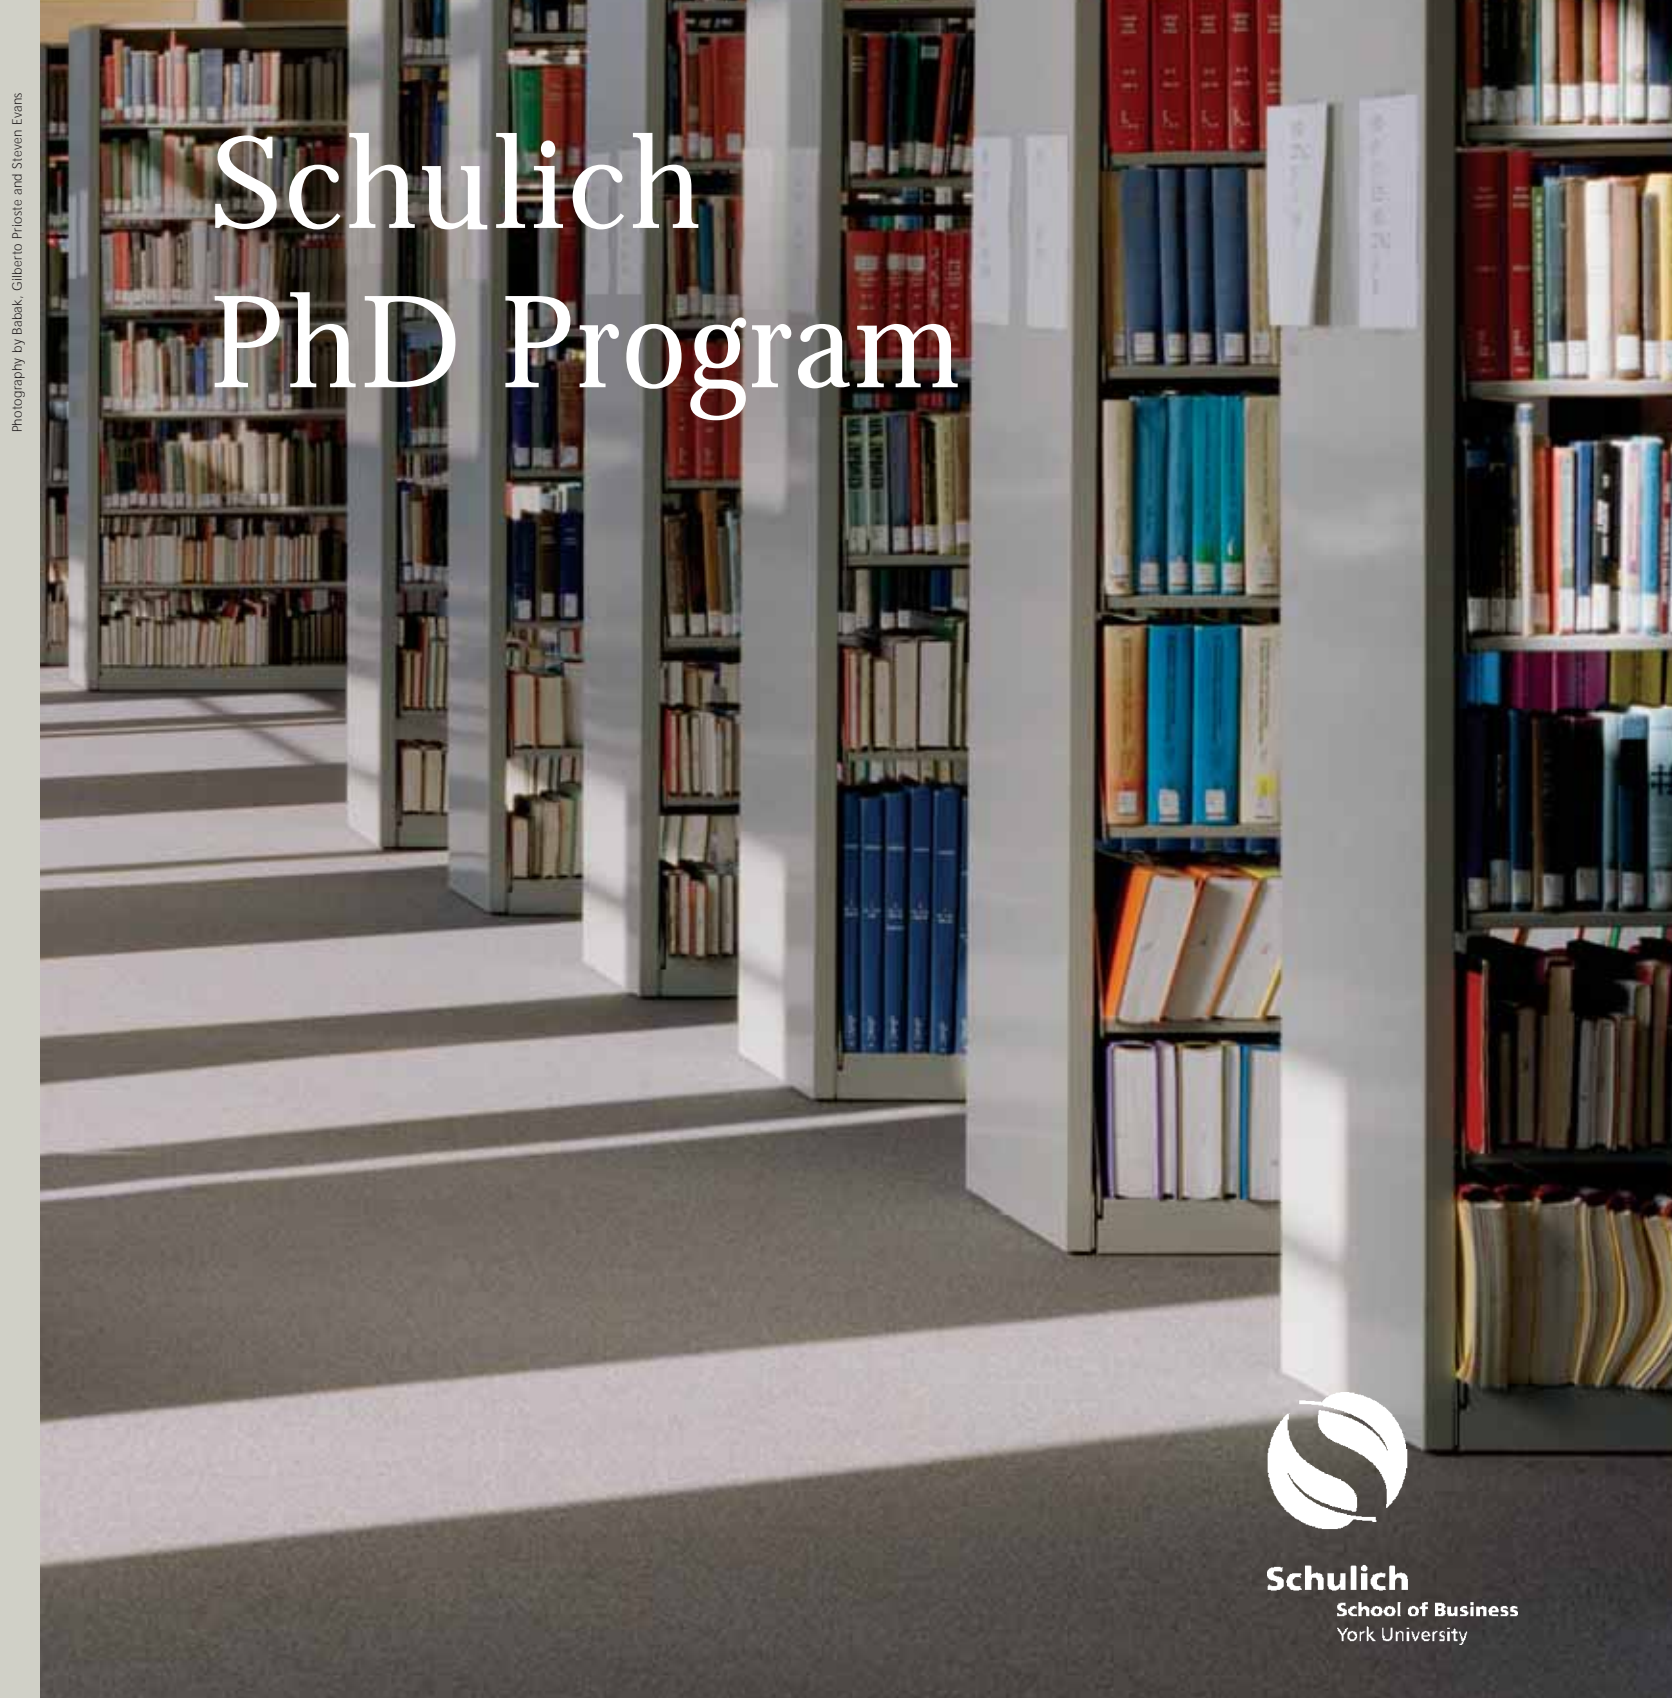

"All of my Schulich professors provided guidance and support on how to do research and how to teach including most importantly, the necessary ingredients of a successful academic career – passion, work ethic, dedication, perseverance, caring and compassion. When I taught my first class, they were there to give me pointers, how to survive the first ten minutes, and how to learn and improve from each lecture. All of my experiences as a doctoral student helped shape me in many ways and is one of the key reasons that I chose to return to Schulich as a Faculty member after teaching at a variety of other institutions internationally."

JEAN PAUL ROY
 PhD CANDIDATE ORGANIZATIONAL BEHAVIOUR AND INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS
 PREVIOUS DEGREES: HONS. B.SC. & M.I.R.

"By far, what I cherish and value most in the Schulich Ph.D. program is having the opportunity to work closely with faculty who are both leaders in their field and unbelievably supportive, accessible and friendly. I was able to utilize the diverse expertise and varied interests of the faculty to develop a cross-disciplinary study and research agenda that suited my interests. Schulich has truly provided me with the perfect apprenticeship for my intellectual and career development as a management scholar."

Schulich PhD

The Schulich PhD in Administration is designed to prepare you for a stimulating career in academic teaching and research. Graduates from this rigorous program of study contribute to the global practice and knowledge of business.

Entry into the PhD program is highly competitive with a limited number of students selected each year. Upon admission, you will find a highly supportive environment from faculty members renowned in their areas of research.

We encourage you to look closely at the Faculty Profiles to learn more about their interests and work in order to find a Schulich faculty member who might champion your admission.

Areas of Concentration

Schulich's PhD Program offers six major areas of concentration. When you are building your program, you must choose one major and two minor areas of focus. These minor areas may include cross disciplinary research inside or outside of Schulich. The major areas of concentration are:

- Accounting
- Finance
- Management Policy
- Marketing
- Operations Management and Information Systems
- Organizational Behaviour and Industrial Relations

Information on Schulich's world respected Faculty and their innovative research areas can be found at:

www.schulich.yorku.ca/facultyprofiles

Program Length and Full Time Residency

If you hold a related Masters degree, on entry you should be able to complete all PhD degree requirements within four years, providing that you maintain full-time residency for the duration of your studies. Full-time residency is required for a minimum period of two years. A maximum of six years is granted to complete the PhD.

Program Requirements

The Schulich doctorate is an individualized program which is composed of four tightly linked phases of study:

- core courses to acquire in-depth knowledge of the field you choose to major in and to help develop the skills and competencies necessary to conduct research
- a comprehensive examination to test your mastery of your field
- the preparation of a formal research proposal which demonstrates that there is scope for significant independent research in your major field
- the dissertation

Admissions Criteria

Applicants are selected by the PhD Program Committee based upon:

- academic background (minimum B+ average from a recognized degree)
- research interest
- experience
- recommendations
- GMAT (minimum score 600) or GRE
- English proficiency (if applicable, minimum TOEFL 600 with 5.0 on TWE or computer-adapted TOEFL 250 with 5.0 on TWE or New Generation TOEFL of 100+)

Financial Assistance

Financial assistance is provided to all full-time PhD students in years one through four. Schulich has committed to an excellent financial package for all incoming PhD students. We are pleased to offer one of the best financial packages for doctoral students in Canada. This is based on continued academic standing, satisfactory progress in one's work, and maintaining full time status. A Research Assistantship in years two, three and four are part of the requirement for support. A limited number of International Fellowship Scholarships are also available each year for international students.

In addition to the standard package, you are considered for a variety of named entrance scholarships and support towards annual conference travels. For a complete and current listing of these scholarships and bursary funds, please see:

www.schulich.yorku.ca/phd/feesandfinancialassistance

Academic Fees

Tuition and supplementary fees for full-time domestic and international students are available at:

www.yorku.ca/osfs/gradfeesmain.shtml

Note: Schulich PhD students fall under the faculty category "Faculty of Graduate Studies" in the fees table. You must register in each of the three terms during the year (including summer).

Learning Facilities and Student Housing

The Schulich School of Business offers state of the art teaching and learning facilities. PhD students are allocated office space with a personal computer. The Peter F. Bronfman Business Library contains business periodicals and circulating books as well as reserve and reference collections. In addition, in-library and remote access to many networked full-text databases are available.

As a student, either single or with a family you are eligible to apply for housing on the York Campus.
